Usil International Center
Cusco
Studies & Research Programs
We invite you to study while enjoying a unique cultural immersion experience in the most important historic city in South America, the former capital of the Inca Empire, and visiting one of the Seven Wonders of the World, the Inca royal residence of Machu Picchu.

Cusco is situated in the heart of the Andes, at an altitude of 3400 meters (11,300 feet). It is a city in which ancient Inca royal palaces and temples share space with colonial-era Spanish mansions and beautifully decorated churches. Today, Cusco is a melting pot of cultures with a richly cosmopolitan feel, where ancient indigenous traditions and customs are overlaid with the trappings of the modern world.

Every year, millions of tourists come to Cusco to see Machu Picchu, the legendary Inca settlement nestled among mountains covered in tropical forest, just four hours from Cusco by bus and train. Over the past one hundred years, Machu Picchu has emerged as one of the most emblematic sites on the continent, and a must-see experience for travelers interested in history and culture.

The Cusco region boasts a series of spectacular landscapes, from the high peaks of the Andes, which give way to the foothills surrounding the city itself, to the forests of the Amazon basin, with their breathtaking variety of plant and animal species.

The people of Cusco are open, forthcoming and always willing to give a warm welcome to visitors.

We take pleasure in sharing these treasures with you.

Welcome to Cusco
Our International Study Program

06 Semester & Summer Terms
06 USIL International Center for studies and Research - Cusco
06 Our Cultural Center
06 Housing: The University Residence
06 Housing: Family-stay
06 On Hands-On Component
06 Our Field Trips
06 Visiting Machu Picchu and The Sacred Valley of The Incas

Our Courses

14 Languages
14 Advanced Spanish
14 Intermediate Spanish
14 Pre - Intermediate Spanish
14 Beginning Spanish
14 Written Communication in Spanish
14 Beginning Quechua

Humanities & Social Sciences
14 Contemporary Society and Culture of Peru
14 History and Culture of the Incas
14 Institutions in Peruvian Society
14 Introduction to volunteering, service learning and social Responsibility in Cusco
14 Latin American Literature

Art & Architecture
14 Art and Design in Cusco
14 Inca Architecture
14 Photography in Cusco
14 Cultural Heritage Conservation

Communication
14 Introduction to Communication
14 Communication for Development
14 History of Latin American Cinema
14 Intercultural Communication
14 Communication Psychology

Business
14 Business in Peru and Latin America
14 International Trade: Import and Export

Environmental Studies
14 Peru's Biodiversity

Health and Nutrition
14 Health and Shamanism in Andean and Amazonian Cultures
14 Andean Nutrition

Tourism
14 Economics and Sociology of tourism
14 Cultural tourism in Cusco and Peru
14 Participatory and Immersion Tourism in Peru
14 Sustainable Tourism

Gastronomy
14 History of Peruvian Cuisine
14 Gastronomic tourism in Cusco and Peru

Languages
14 Communication
14 Tourism

Humanities & Social Sciences
14 Business
14 Gastronomy

Environmental Studies
14 Intercultural Education
14 Environmental Care
14 Cultural Heritage
14 Crafts and Local Traditions
14 Health and Social Welfare
14 Construction in Marginal Rural and Urban Areas
14 Economic Sustainability and Media Lab

Art & Architecture
14 Healing and Shamanism in Andean and Amazonian Cultures
14 Andean Nutrition

Research Opportunities

Other Activities

46 Volunteering and Service Learning
14 Intercultural Education
14 Environmental Care
14 Cultural Heritage
14 Crafts and Local Traditions
14 Health and Social Welfare
14 Construction in Marginal Rural and Urban Areas
14 Economic Sustainability and Media Lab

46 Our Teaching Staff

48 Our Administrative and Support Staff

40 Customized and Faculty - Led Programs
Our International Study Program

Semesters & Summer terms

2 Semesters
(4 months, choose up to 5 courses):

- Mid - January   - early May
- Mid - August    - early December

2 Summer Terms
(5 weeks, choose 2 courses):

- Late May   - late June
- Late June   - early August

www.international.usil.edu.pe
USIL International Center for Studies and Research - Cusco is located in the heart of the historic city center, on the main street of the former Inca capital that connects the Main Square with the ancient temple known as Qorikancha, once the most important shrine in the Inca Empire. The university building occupies part of one of the ancient residences of the Inca nobility, which subsequently became the site of a Spanish colonial-style house. Fragments of the original Inca stonework have survived, combining harmoniously with beautiful Mediterranean-style arcades.

The building is equipped with all the modern facilities required by such an institution, including Wi-Fi, a computer lab, library, conference hall and multimedia projectors.

USIL International Center for Studies and Research - Cusco also serves as a Cultural Center. Non-profit free admission cultural events are held here, including film festivals and screenings, concerts, art exhibitions and book launches. In cooperation with other cultural institutions in Cusco, USIL supports local art and culture, through an annual program of cultural activities.

Our Cultural Center
Housing: the University Residence

Students may choose to stay at our university residence Casa Don Ignacio, which offers Wi-Fi, kitchen, TV room, laundry service and other facilities. Visit us at: www.casadedonignacio.com

Housing: Family Stay

Another housing option is family stay, which offers an excellent opportunity for cultural immersion and a way to learn firsthand about local customs, traditions and lifestyle. You will be living with a friendly host family, accustomed to receiving foreign visitors, who will provide you with three meals a day and the chance to practice your Spanish beyond the classroom.
Our courses incorporate a range of field trips. These include:

- Museums
- Archaeological sites
- Landscapes rich in biodiversity
- Governmental institutions
- Churches, monasteries and convents
- Exhibitions, book fairs, other cultural events and spaces
- Local educational establishments
- Formal and informal markets and fairs
- Independent non-profit organizations
- Native rural communities

Our program offers students faculty-led guided visits to Machu Picchu, as well as the Sacred Valley of the Incas, where the Incas built a series of royal residences set amid the stunning scenery of a green, temperate valley. Students travel accompanied by our specialist faculty staff, using services provided by a professional tour company.
This course enables students to develop communication skills in Spanish, according to their level of knowledge of the language. Students will improve their listening, speaking, reading and writing skills through a Communicative Approach in a Spanish-speaking environment among friendly and receptive people. In addition, they will learn about a local culture that is very different from their own, while practicing their newly-acquired language skills as part of a cultural immersion process.

Area of study: Spanish Language

4 credits / 84 contact hours

Taught in: Spanish

Intermediate Spanish

This course students develop their linguistic and socio-linguistic abilities, gaining the skills necessary for language use in an immersion context. The course is founded upon an integrated approach to language learning: grammar, vocabulary, writing skills, conversation and comprehension.

Area of study: Spanish Language

4 credits / 84 contact hours

Taught in: Spanish

Pre - Intermediate Spanish

In this Spanish course students develop fundamental language skills (listening, speaking, reading and writing), through participation in real-life communication with native speakers as well as through exercising their knowledge in structured classroom situations. They learn how to express simple ideas necessary for optimal communication in both personal and professional settings. They will also have an opportunity for personal reflection on language use, making the learning process more creative and meaningful.

Area of study: Spanish Language

4 credits / 84 contact hours

Taught in: Spanish
In this course students learn to write correctly and coherently in Spanish. The course covers the fundamentals of text production, writing strategies and styles, coherence in written texts and the grammar rules of the Spanish language.

Beginning Quechua

Area of study: Quechua Language, Native Languages of South America, Andean Studies
4 credits / 84 contact hours
Taught in: Quechua & Spanish

Students are introduced to Quechua, once the official language of the Inca Empire and today the most widely spoken native language in the Andean region. The course develops reading, writing, speaking and listening skills, focusing on basic grammar and vocabulary and giving students opportunities to interact directly with native speakers during field trips in Cusco and rural Quechua-speaking areas beyond the city.

Written Communication in Spanish

Area of study: Spanish Language, Written Communication
4 credits / 64 contact hours
Taught in: Spanish

In this course students learn to write correctly and coherently in Spanish. The course covers the fundamentals of text production, writing strategies and styles, coherence in written texts and the grammar rules of the Spanish language.
This course allows students to explore and understand Peruvian society today as the result of a series of historical, anthropological and sociological processes and transformations. This exciting journey through Peru's past and present begins with the historical background (pre-Inca and Inca cultures, European colonization and independence), providing a pathway to a better understanding of current Peruvian politics and the nation's economy, spirituality, social conflicts and environmental challenges. A wide range of field trips, ranging from government institutions to informal markets, will introduce participants to different aspects of daily life in Cusco.

Area of study: History, Sociology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English or Spanish

History and Culture of the Incas

Area of study: History, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies, Andean Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English or Spanish

This course introduces students to the most renowned of all pre-colonial South American societies, enabling them to explore its history in the heartland of the Inca state: the ancient capital city of Cusco. The course covers key aspects of the social structure, political development, economy, technology, religion and spirituality of the Incas. The central aim of the course is to guide students towards a deeper understanding of this extraordinary non-Western culture and its role in world history. Visits to archaeological sites and museums are included.

Area of study: History, Sociology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English or Spanish

Contemporary Society and Culture of Peru

Area of study: History, Sociology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English or Spanish

This course allows students to explore and understand Peruvian society today as the result of a series of historical, anthropological and sociological processes and transformations. This exciting journey through Peru's past and present begins with the historical background (pre-Inca and Inca cultures, European colonization and independence), providing a pathway to a better understanding of current Peruvian politics and the nation's economy, spirituality, social conflicts and environmental challenges. A wide range of field trips, ranging from government institutions to informal markets, will introduce participants to different aspects of daily life in Cusco.
Area of study: History, Sociology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English

This course focuses on the main governmental, private and independent non-profit institutions within Peruvian society. Its content addresses the structure and function of social, political and economic organizations at all governmental levels. Students will gain a deeper understanding through field trips in the city and throughout the Cusco region, during which they will be able to compare local institutional frameworks with those of their home country.

Area of study: Latin American Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: Spanish

This course offers a journey through Latin American literature, from the earliest works of the pre-Columbian age to our own time. It invites students to delve into the magic of Latin American culture and traditions through their reading and critical analysis of some of the continent’s most representative examples of poetry and prose. Students attend literature related events and experience direct contact with the local literary scene.

Area of study: Literature, Latin American Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: Spanish

This course offers a journey through Latin American literature, from the earliest works of the pre-Columbian age to our own time. It invites students to delve into the magic of Latin American culture and traditions through their reading and critical analysis of some of the continent’s most representative examples of poetry and prose. Students attend literature related events and experience direct contact with the local literary scene.

Area of study: Sociology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies, Volunteering and Service Learning
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English

In essence, this course is intended to serve as an introduction for those students who come to Cusco for a volunteering or service learning experience. Its content addresses the legal framework for volunteering and service learning in Peru; vulnerable local populations and their needs; best practices for volunteering; governmental, non-governmental and private organizations and their social responsibility initiatives. Students will be able to apply the lessons learned in class to their practical volunteering and service learning projects.
This course offers students a unique opportunity to experience cultural immersion and develop their personal artistic creativity. Along with lectures on the art history of Cusco and a range of contemporary art forms, they will be invited to participate in a number of field trips to museums, churches, art studios, cultural institutions, galleries and fairs. By the end of the course, students will have completed their own individual or group art projects, based on their experiences in Cusco.

In this theoretical and practical course students will learn about key elements in the process of photographic production, starting with basic technical aspects of the use of a digital camera and moving on to the subtle aesthetic effects of light, color, contrast and focus. They will have the opportunity to practice their newly acquired skills in a range of natural and urban settings, as well as in a professional studio and during their travels throughout other parts of Peru. The course also covers the essential facts concerning the history of photography, including the history of photography in Peru.

This course demonstrates to students the importance of cultural heritage in our contemporary world. They will study procedures and policies designed to conserve culturally significant buildings and landscapes. Topics addressed by the course include: heritage site registration and cataloguing, UNESCO Heritage Conservation Charters, and principal restoration and conservation techniques. In Cusco, once the capital of the Inca Empire, a number of conservation projects remain ongoing. Students will visit archaeological and historical sites, in order to see for themselves how such theoretical knowledge is applied in practice.
We believe in the power of communication and media as vehicles for transformation. In this theoretical and practical course students learn how to use and understand communication in the context of a globalized world. They will also gain an overview of the range of current communication resources, from mass media and advertising to social networks, all within the context of contemporary Peruvian society.

This course introduces students to the world of Latin American cinema, from the early influence of the Italian neorealist movement to contemporary expressions of the seventh art across many of the countries of this unique region. It will also help students to find in Latin American cinema clues for an understanding of different realities, and to construct meaningful comparisons with their own culture, while engaging in personal reflection.

One of the most important ingredients of social projects is the area of communication. This course takes a close look at the potential of communication resources in development projects, including policy design, creativity strategies and the mechanisms employed to convey a specific message to a target audience. The course shows students how, beginning with a situational analysis, they can select the most efficient communication methods and tools for the success of a given project.

The main objective of the course is to enhance students’ capacity for appreciating the richness of any culture, including their own, and to show them the value of cultural identity, through an exploration of the multiple strategies for cross-cultural interaction.

Introduction to Communication

Area of study: Communication, Mass Media, Semiotics
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English

Communication for Development

Area of study: Communication, Development, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English

History of Latin American Cinema

Area of study: Cinema, Communication, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English or Spanish

Intercultural Communication

Area of study: Communication, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English or Spanish
The aim of this course is to help students comprehend our social environment through a psychological interpretation of different forms of communication. The course explores the role of language as the fundamental tool in the communication process, the use of linguistic signs, and the concepts of message, transmission and reception. Also, a critical review is offered of mass media content, through a deconstruction of the methods and strategies underlying psychological impact.

Area of study: Communication, Psychology
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English
This course gives students a better understanding of the economic environment for investment, trade and importing in Peru and Latin America. It provides a basic understanding of regional economics, marketing, trade opportunities and free trade agreements, in the context of doing business in Latin America.

Area of study: Business, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
Taught in: English

4 credits / 64 contact hours

International Trade: Import and Export

This course provides students with the tools required for an understanding of how goods and services flow across countries, how savings and investments are moved from one country to another, and how international companies do business in Peru.

Area of study: International Trade, International Finance, Trade, Taxes, Labor and Employment Law in Peru
Taught in: English

4 credits / 64 contact hours
The Earth’s biodiversity is composed of many millions of biological species which are the product of four billion years of evolution. Peru is one of the world’s 17 mega diverse countries. The extraordinary biodiversity of Peru means that students are able to observe many of these teeming life forms for themselves, and gain a deeper appreciation of the life that exists all around us.

Area of study: Biodiversity, Biology, Environmental Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English
This course introduces students to ancient and current traditional healing and shamanic practices and beliefs in the Andean and Amazonian worlds, focusing upon their origins in the pre-Columbian period and their development over time. We will discuss traditional concepts of health and illness, the roles and status of ritual specialists in native societies, the importance of sacred and medicinal plants and other natural resources, and the interaction of ancient Andean heritage with the contemporary cultural context of modern Peru. Field trips will enable students to experience firsthand traditional healing and healing-related practices.

Area of study: Health, Traditional Medicine, Anthropology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies

3 credits / 48 contact hours

Taught in: English

The purpose of this course is to reveal to students the remarkable nutritional qualities of Andean crops, their role in the diet of local populations, and their value within the context of local culture, comparing them with other crops of foreign origin and tracing their influence on the global food supply. Students will learn about the most widely practiced local agricultural methods and techniques, as well about the culinary products derived from native plant species.

Area of study: Nutrition, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies

3 credits / 48 contact hours

Taught in: English
This course discusses the effects tourism has had on Peruvian society and the nation’s economy, focusing specifically on the last thirty years. We will begin with a brief history of major archaeological discoveries and the development of tourist attractions, before examining how the resulting changes have affected local communities and Peru as a whole. At the end of the course, students will be encouraged to discuss the positive and negative impacts of tourism on Peru’s current social and economic situation.

Economics and Sociology of Tourism

Area of study: Tourism, Economics, Sociology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English

This course addresses the cultural aspect of tourism, which is remarkably rich in the Peruvian context. The aim is to equip students with the concepts that will help them to better understand this aspect of tourism, while introducing them to a broad range of cultural attractions: archaeological sites, museums, local customs and traditions, art and festivities. Students are guided towards a deeper understanding of cultural tourism through a number of field trips in Cusco and the surrounding region.

Cultural Tourism in Cusco and Peru

Area of study: Tourism, Sociology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English
This course analyzes the experience of tourism in Peru in terms of cultural immersion. It addresses the best known practices of cultural immersion, offering an insight into the life of those native Andean communities facing a future in which tourism will constitute a new economic resource. Students will be guided towards a better understanding of the differences between classic tourism activities and cultural immersion, discovering how tourism has been integrated into the life of Andean communities. Visits to indigenous communities form an essential part of the learning process. At the end of the course, students will be encouraged to propose improvements to cultural immersion activities, based on their own experience.

The tourism industry is a major player in the world economy and, more recently, in the Peruvian economy. This course gives students a better understanding of the positive and negative impacts of the tourism industry, through real life situations involving protected areas, local community participation and politics. At the end of the course, students will be encouraged to propose their own sustainable solution for a current tourism related issue.

Participatory and Immersion Tourism in Peru

Area of study: Tourism, Sociology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English

Sustainable Tourism

Area of study: Tourism, Sociology, Latin American Studies, Peruvian Studies
3 credits / 48 contact hours
Taught in: English

The tourism industry is a major player in the world economy and, more recently, in the Peruvian economy. This course gives students a better understanding of the positive and negative impacts of the tourism industry, through real life situations involving protected areas, local community participation and politics. At the end of the course, students will be encouraged to propose their own sustainable solution for a current tourism related issue.
In this course students will learn about the importance of ancestral knowledge dating back to the varied and healthy diet of the Incas and earlier Andean cultures, the remarkable biodiversity of native crops such as corn and potatoes, and about cooking and food preservation methods. They will also gain insight into the impact of Old World influences following the arrival of the Spanish, and in the wake of a series of migrations throughout the 19th and the 20th centuries. Field trips will enable students to explore the rich cultural history underpinning Peru’s dynamic gastronomic tradition.

Tourism in Peru is about more than archaeological heritage and the Amazon rainforest. Peru is home to a vibrant culture which has so much to offer the rest of the world, including its fascinating gastronomy. During this course, students will have a chance to discover the contemporary significance of Peru’s creative food culture, with its unique combination of styles inherited and adapted from both local and global sources. Peru’s major gastronomic festivals, such as Mistura, will also be discussed. Students will learn about the traditional Cusco dishes prepared during specific local celebrations. And, of course, direct cultural experience will constitute an essential component of the course.
USIL International Center for Studies and Research - Cusco offers customized short-term programs designed to suit the specific needs and program ideas of our partner institutions. Prospective students can select the content of the program in accordance with their interests. In addition to the courses listed in this catalog, we can prepare customized courses by drawing upon our broad range of academic specialties. Custom-designed programs may include workshops, excursions, visits to museums and local institutions, guest speakers, cooking and dancing classes, and much more.

USIL-Cusco also offers facilities for the hosting of faculty-led study abroad programs on behalf of overseas universities, high schools and other educational institutions.
USIL International Center for Studies and Research - Cusco is pleased to announce the launch of its Resident Associate Researchers Network. If you are planning to travel to Peru for a short- or long-term research visit, you can elect to join our university community, free of charge, as a Resident Associate Researcher, a status which offers the following benefits:

1. Institutional support from USIL (letters of recommendation upon request).
2. The right to use our campus facilities: library, computer lab, Wi-Fi.
3. Logistical orientation and advice from our staff.
4. Institutional contacts (upon request).
5. Support in case of emergency.

Researchers wanting to feel at home during their visit to Cusco are most welcome at USIL.

To be accepted as part of our network, you should send us your application file at least two weeks prior to your visit, and include the following documents in digital form:

1. Application and letter of introduction from your home university / institution.
2. Research project summary.
3. CV.

Contact e-mail: vtyuleneva@usil.edu.pe, or studyincusco@usil.edu.pe

Your file will be evaluated by USIL’s academic authorities, and upon approval you will receive a letter of acceptance.

In addition to the free of charge network membership outlined above, we can also offer tutorship/supervision services for your research project, provided by our own teaching staff at professional rates.

There is no limit on research areas for those seeking to benefit free of charge from the institutional support offered by membership of our network; however, we recommend that those seeking our tutorship/supervision services limit their fields to the range of specialties covered by our Center (check the list of our courses and the profiles of our teaching staff).

The USIL Resident Associate Researchers Network is mostly aimed at postgraduate students and experienced researchers; however, undergraduate students who submit solid and well-sustained academic proposals may on occasion be accepted as Junior Associate Researchers.

Upon conclusion of their research visit to Cusco, Resident Associate Researchers will be asked to share the final results of their work with USIL or, in cases of ongoing research, to submit a written report describing the preliminary results of the research conducted in Cusco. USIL will issue a certificate confirming the researcher’s membership of our network.
We offer our international students in Cusco a wide range of options combining the learning process with social responsibility activities designed to meet the needs of the local community, while at the same time contributing to the professional training of young people. Being a volunteer means donating time and energy out of a sense of social responsibility and for the benefit of people in the community, rather than in expectation of financial reward. Service learning is a teaching and learning strategy which combines meaningful community service with instruction and reflection intended to enrich the learning experience, while imparting notions of civic responsibility and working to strengthen communities.

Our volunteering (short and medium term) and service learning (medium and long term) programs are based upon a series of projects divided into the following six areas:

Intercultural Education

The goal of intercultural education is to improve the quality of education received by vulnerable populations. Our main field of action is the teaching of English to children, with the aim of improving their conversation skills and reading comprehension.

Environmental Care

Our environmental awareness, reforestation, waste control and animal protection projects, together with other initiatives, seek to sustainably preserve the environment over the long term.

Cultural Heritage

Cultural heritage is a fundamentally important aspect of Cusco life. The city has been recognized as a World Cultural Heritage Site by UNESCO and the Peruvian government. At USIL, we have formed strategic alliances with key partners for the protection and conservation of the region’s cultural heritage, through projects focused on ways of raising awareness among the general public.

Economic Sustainability and Media Lab

Many local non-profit organizations, cultural institutions and social responsibility projects seek assistance in developing economic sustainability strategies, fundraising initiatives, and marketing and media solutions. This area is designed for those students with an interest in economics, business, marketing and media.

Crafts and Local Traditions

We work with institutions and organizations dedicated to the revitalization of local traditions and the promotion of all aspects of local arts and crafts activities.

Health and Social Welfare

Our health and wellbeing projects seek to contribute to improvements in the health of the most vulnerable sectors of the local population.

Construction in Marginal Rural and Urban Areas

We work to improve quality of life in marginal rural and urban areas through activities such as building gardens, greenhouses, recreation areas, schools and community kitchens.
Other Activities

- Salsa lessons
- Cooking lessons
- Participation in local festivals
Our Teaching Staff

Carolina Caceres

Courses: Spanish Language, Written Communication

Carolina holds a Bachelor’s degree in Education from Cusco’s San Antonio Abad University, where she majored in Language and Literature, and a degree in Psychology from Cusco’s Andina University, as well as a Master’s degree in Higher Education from Cusco’s San Antonio Abad University, and has completed a specialist course in teaching Spanish as a foreign language at the Pontifical Catholic University of Peru (PUCP-Lima). Carolina has worked as an academic coordinator and Spanish teacher with a number of Spanish language schools, and has taught Spanish, written communication and conversational Spanish at universities in Michigan (USA), Hebei (China) and Cusco (Peru). She has worked with the USIL International Center for Studies and Research - Cusco since 2013.

Kris Cardenas

Courses: Spanish Language; Latin American Literature

Kris has been teaching the Spanish language and Latin American Literature for more than ten years. She holds a Master’s degree in teaching Spanish as a second language from the University of Cantabria, Spain, and holds a Bachelor’s degree in Education, having majored in Spanish and Literature. Kris is Peruvian, loves traveling, books, art and languages, and really enjoys her work.

Alberto Chara

Courses: Contemporary Society and Culture of Peru; Institutions in Peruvian Society; Economy and Sociology of Tourism; Cultural Tourism in Cusco and Peru; Participatory and Immersion Tourism in Peru; Introduction to Volunteering; Service Learning and Social Responsibility in Cusco

Alberto holds degrees in Latin American History, Tourism and Culture, having majored in Peruvian Society. He received his Bachelor’s degree in Tourism in Peru before continuing his education in Spain, where he gained a Master’s degree in Tourism and Management and Latin American History. He is currently pursuing a Master’s degree in Higher Education. His research interests are centered on anthropology and the sociology of modern Peruvian society.

Angelita Contreras

Courses: History of Peruvian Cuisine; Gastronomic Tourism in Cusco and Peru

Angelita holds a Master’s degree in Business from USIL, where she majored in Marketing, and a Bachelor’s degree in Tourism from Cusco’s San Antonio Abad University, as well as diplomas for postgraduate studies in Public Investment Projects, Tourism Management and Administration. She is fluent in English, Quechua, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese, and enjoys teaching. In addition to her work with the USIL International Center for Studies and Research - Cusco, she is also Head of the Department of Tourism Administration and the Hospitality Industry at the Khipu Institute. She has worked in the travel and hospitality industry for seven years, and loves traveling and learning from her experiences as a traveler.
Nancy was born in the village of Pucyura near Cusco, and Quechua is her native language. She holds Bachelor’s degrees in Education and Law and is currently studying for a Master’s degree in Higher Education and Administration. Over the past four years she has taught a number of courses, including the Quechua language, at the Technological University of the Andes, the Cusco Music Institute and the USIL International Center for Studies and Research - Cusco. She is the author of the highly original Quechua course she teaches.

Laura was born in Cusco and holds a Bachelor’s degree in Education from Cusco’s San Antonio Abad University, and a Master’s Degree in Education Management. She has considerable experience of teaching Spanish as a foreign language in a number of language schools in Cusco, and has worked with the USIL, International Center for Studies and Research – Cusco since 2011, where she enjoys sharing her knowledge about language and culture with foreign students.

Juan Manuel Delgado was born and raised in Cusco, Peru, and went to college in the United States. He obtained his bachelor’s degree in Business and International Economics at Lock Haven University of Pennsylvania. His academic interests include international business, international relations, international education, and global economics and finance. One of his main concerns involves ensuring that underrepresented, underserved, talented Peruvian students are exposed to the power of international education and the life-long benefits of being part of an international professional network. He enjoys reading, contributing to his country’s development, expanding his professional network, and playing soccer!

Juan is a photographer with seventeen years’ professional experience, a co-founder of the local camera club “FOTO Club Cusco” (2004), and co-author of the project “Machu Picchu, Cultura Viva” which focuses on living Andean heritage. His work has been exhibited both individually and as part of group shows in Cusco, Lima, Miami (USA), Lausanne (Switzerland), Dubai (United Arab Emirates) and Terni (Italy), and been published in several books and magazines.

Laura was born in Cusco and holds a Bachelor’s degree in Education from Cusco’s San Antonio Abad University, and a Master’s Degree in Education Management. She has considerable experience of teaching Spanish as a foreign language in a number of language schools in Cusco, and has worked with the USIL, International Center for Studies and Research – Cusco since 2011, where she enjoys sharing her knowledge about language and culture with foreign students.

Juan Manuel Delgado was born and raised in Cusco, Peru, and went to college in the United States. He obtained his bachelor’s degree in Business and International Economics at Lock Haven University of Pennsylvania. His academic interests include international business, international relations, international education, and global economics and finance. One of his main concerns involves ensuring that underrepresented, underserved, talented Peruvian students are exposed to the power of international education and the life-long benefits of being part of an international professional network. He enjoys reading, contributing to his country’s development, expanding his professional network, and playing soccer!

Juan is a photographer with seventeen years’ professional experience, a co-founder of the local camera club “FOTO Club Cusco” (2004), and co-author of the project “Machu Picchu, Cultura Viva” which focuses on living Andean heritage. His work has been exhibited both individually and as part of group shows in Cusco, Lima, Miami (USA), Lausanne (Switzerland), Dubai (United Arab Emirates) and Terni (Italy), and been published in several books and magazines.

Laura was born in Cusco and holds a Bachelor’s degree in Education from Cusco’s San Antonio Abad University, and a Master’s Degree in Education Management. She has considerable experience of teaching Spanish as a foreign language in a number of language schools in Cusco, and has worked with the USIL, International Center for Studies and Research – Cusco since 2011, where she enjoys sharing her knowledge about language and culture with foreign students.
Oscar graduated from Cusco’s San Antonio Abad University as an Agricultural Engineer and holds a Master of Science Degree in Agronomy and Horticulture from the University of California at Davis. He has been a university professor for more than seven years, teaching both in Spanish and English. His main fields of expertise are: Biodiversity, Climate Change Adaptation and Indigenous Knowledge, Environmental Studies and Biostatistics. He also works as a researcher at the NGO IDSA–ANTARKI, focusing mainly on food security and the biodiversity conservation of Andean crops in rural communities.

Courses:
- Biodiversity of Peru
- Andean Nutrition
- Healing & Shamanism in Andean and Amazonian Cultures
- Sustainable Tourism

Oscar Ortega

Mario graduated in Communication, Publicity and Advertisement from the Pontifical Catholic University of Peru (PUCP-Lima). He began his career working in advertising agencies, as well as for television and media companies such as Media Networks and Cable Mágico. He holds a Master’s degree in Documentary Filmmaking from the Autonomous University of Barcelona, where he filmed his first documentary, “For One Eye”, which was shown at several film festivals in Spain, and has recently completed his first full-length documentary, “The City of Padlocks”. He has worked on a number of social projects and runs his own production company, “La Llama Producciones”.

Courses:
- Introduction to Communication
- Intercultural Communication
- Communication for Development
- History of Latin American Cinema
- Communication Psychology

Mario Osorio

Vera was born in Saint Petersburg, Russia, and has lived and worked in Cusco since 1999. She graduated in History and Art History from the Saint Petersburg State University and received her Master’s degree in Anthropology from the European University at Saint Petersburg. She holds a PhD in History and Andean Studies from the Pontifical Catholic University of Peru (PUCP-Lima). Her main areas of interest include relations between the Andean region and the Amazon lowlands during the late pre-colonial and early colonial period, as well as the contemporary art of Cusco. She is has served as Director of the USIL International Center for Studies and Research – Cusco since 2016.

Courses:
- History and Culture of the Incas
- Art and Design in Cusco

Vera Tyuleneva

Maria was born in Cusco and graduated in Business Management from Cusco’s Andina University. She is currently studying for a Master’s degree in Educational Psychology. She has worked in a number of Cusco’s private institutions and Spanish language schools, and has been teaching Spanish as a foreign language with the USIL International Center for Studies and Research – Cusco for eight years. Her work has brought her considerable professional and personal satisfaction and reinforced her belief in the enormous potential of cultural and social diversity.

Courses:
- Spanish Language

Maria Zarate

Miguel is a Cusco architect with more than fifteen years’ experience in heritage protection and the conservation of Inca roads, archaeological sites and colonial-era churches in and around Cusco, the ancient capital of the Inca Empire. He has worked with leading local government institutions focused on heritage management, including the Municipality of Cusco and the Cusco office of Peru’s Ministry of Culture. He is familiar with the educational system of the United States, having worked as a lecturer on Inca architecture with several North American institutions, including the University of Notre Dame.

Courses:
- Inca Architecture
- Cultural Heritage Conservation

Miguel Landa

Courses: Biodiversity of Peru, Andean Nutrition, Healing & Shamanism in Andean and Amazonian Cultures, Sustainable Tourism

Oscar Ortega

Courses: Communication, Publicity and Advertisement from the Pontifical Catholic University of Peru (PUCP-Lima), Master’s degree in Documentary Filmmaking from the Autonomous University of Barcelona, filmmaking in Spain, first documentary, “The City of Padlocks”.

Courses: Introduction to Communication, Intercultural Communication, Communication for Development, History of Latin American Cinema, Communication Psychology

Mario Osorio

Courses: History and Culture of the Incas, Art and Design in Cusco

Vera Tyuleneva

Courses: Spanish Language

Maria Zarate

Courses: Inca Architecture, Cultural Heritage Conservation

Miguel Landa

Oscar Ortega

Mario Osorio

Vera Tyuleneva

Maria Zarate

Miguel Landa

Oscar Ortega

Mario Osorio

Vera Tyuleneva

Maria Zarate

Miguel Landa

Oscar Ortega

Mario Osorio

Vera Tyuleneva

Maria Zarate

Miguel Landa

Oscar Ortega

Mario Osorio

Vera Tyuleneva

Maria Zarate
Our Administrative and Support Staff

Dr. Vera Tyuleneva, Director
Monica Aparicio, Academic Coordinator
Sonia Ortiz, Administrative Assistant
Pablo Irazabal, Marketing & Technical Assistant
Bertha Ccama, Maintenance Assistant
Jose Luis Cadena, Maintenance Assistant
Claudia Vasquez, Maintenance Assistant